What's new in child development research?

This academic year has been a time for growth and expansion within our research consortium. We've increased our number of running studies, invited more families to join our research, and a new member joined our research team. This issue of our newsletter highlights some current studies from our various offices, as well as recent findings!

We always welcome new families!

The Infant & Child Studies offices always welcome new families to participate in research. Spread the word to friends and colleagues!
